

EPICLESIS VIRTUAL CHAPTER HOUSE
PRAYER AND EUCHARIST, THURSDAY, JULY 23, 2020

Celtic Daily Prayer Book 2, Eata Readings, July 23

Psalm 30:5b-6 † Isaiah 51:10-11 † Titus 3:3-5a

Daily Reading

Encompass me with joy, for weeping gathers all its gloom against me.

Encompass me with love, for the world's a hating place at times.

Encompass me with good news, for the days overwhelm the soul with negativity.

Encompass me with foreverness, for I am too temporary to have any kind of future without You.

Amen.

-Calvin Miller

Meditation

We've all got little cells in our hearts, little hermitages that God wants to fill. For some, there's a physical place of silence. It's hard to be silent. It's hard to stop. To know God in the quiet is worth a lot – it's there we'll get our vision and our peace to come through whatever hits us.

--Celtic Book of Daily Prayer, Book 1, Aidan Readings, July 23